Key Questions

1. When does Christ return?
2. What is the nature of the millennial reign of Christ?
3. Where is Christ if, and when, he rules the world?
4. What is the nature of the first resurrection at the beginning of the millennium?
5. What is the nature of the final or general resurrection, which takes place after the millennium at the Great White Throne judgment on the last day of this Genesis age?

THE ALPHA Beginning of this Genesis age

The Adamic order of being as male and female given in marriage

As the Son of God, this Genesis creation was created through him, by him, and for him.

End of this Genesis age THE OMEGA

The Adamic order of being comes to an end

A new creation as children of God that is neither male nor female

God's Endgame

Premillennialism: Christ returns before a 1,000-year restoration of this Genesis creation

- When Satan is removed from this world, Christ will return to this earth to rule the world for a thousand years.
- And in order for the departed saints to inhabit the restored Edenic earth at the beginning of the millennium, they will experience the first resurrection of their eternal body, which will no longer experience marriage and reproduction.
- On the last day of this Genesis creation, the saints then transition to the eternal new heavens and new earth, and unbelievers are resurrected, judged, and sent to the lake of fire.

Amillennialism: Christ returns after this present evil age comes to an end

- Christ now reigns over his people in the celestial realm of heaven.
- The world remains Satan's dominion, and the Genesis earth is never restored to its Edenic condition.
- The first resurrection is of the spirit of the saints upon regeneration, or when their spirit rises to heaven upon death.
- Christ's second coming occurs at the final resurrection on Judgment Day, when the saints are raptured into an eternal body to inherit the eternal new heavens and new earth, and unbelievers are resurrected, judged, and sent to the lake of fire.

Postmillennialism: Christ returns after a golden age of Christianity on this earth

- Satan is partially bound, and Christ establishes his millennial reign when the nations are converted to Christianity.
- The world remains Satan's dominion until the last day, and the Genesis earth is never restored to its Edenic condition.
- The first resurrection is of the spirit of the saints upon conversion.
- Christ's second coming occurs at the final resurrection on Judgment Day, when the saints are raptured into an eternal body to inherit the eternal new heavens and new earth, and unbelievers are resurrected, judged, and sent to the lake of fire.

Postrestorationism: Christ returns after a 1,000-year restoration of this Genesis creation

- Jesus Christ is God incarnate. And as the Son of God, this Genesis creation was created through him, by him, and for him.
- When Adam and Eve sinned, God cursed this earth. And he allowed Satan to enter the world, and it became his dominion.
- But as the true God of this world, the ascended Christ has a divine right to restore this earth, remove Satan, and reclaim his creation. On a day set by the Father, he will use his divine power and authority to rule this world for a thousand years from his throne in heaven.
- In order for the departed saints to inherit the restored Edenic earth during the millennium, they will experience the first resurrection of their natural body, which will experience marriage and reproduction.
- After the millennium, Christ comes again at the final resurrection on Judgment Day. The saints are raptured into an eternal body in order to inherit the Father's eternal new heavens and new earth, and unbelievers are resurrected, judged, and sent to the lake of fire.
